

What do I want to learn or understand better?

I learnt a bit about granny testing, which I found useful. The project is in its last week, but I would say I'd like to learn more about testing if I had to choose something.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

I watched the lecture and therefore helped in deciding what to include in the final reflection and the demo. Since this is the last sprint, I won't help anyone in this team any more, but in future projects, I would simply continue my way of participating in discussions and helping when I can.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

I helped decide what to do, as well as helped break user stories down to tasks. I also helped with code, and looked over code, etc. In regards to these users stories, I made sure we only picked ones we would be able to finish in time. In regards to the team reflection, I helped structure it and helped pick what to include or not.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

I have helped greatly in this regard. I have mainly focused on the team reflection and the final reflection. Regarding these I also helped pick relevant information to include by discussing this with other team members. I have also been active during meetings and helped where I can to ensure this project will wrap up nicely.
