1) At the moment I know basic json. I want to get better at writing json code. I plan to achieve this by being active in couple programming and taking help from my peers.

2) By continuing to contributing with what I know and engaging in discussions, helping my peers, etc.

3) I have engaged in discussions and helped decide what to do for the week. I have also helped creating tasks out of user stories and defining the definition of done for the tasks.

4) We worked by programming together, so I have helped there and contributed with ideas and knowledge. Some of the things we did this week was fixing errors in the front end such as the progress bar etc, as well as adding descriptions and linking the different pages together.
